Ethnic Culture Is Topic During NFCUS Exchange Week-end

By FRANCINE CALP

Over Carnival weekend McGill was host to 120 of NFCUS delegates.

An interesting and varied program was drawn up for the NFCUS-sponsored exchange on February 20-22nd. The visitors, many from the U.S.A., saw Montreal, McGill and the University of Montreal, took part in various activities, and also were exposed to some of the thinking which goes on here.

Most of Saturday was devoted to a discussion on culture under the specific subject: "The Preservation of Ethnic Cultures within a Nation of Heterogeneous Nationalities." Three speakers dealt with this topic. Firstly, Mr. Bliss of Cornell University explained the difficulties of getting co-operation between ethnic groups in New York State. Secondly, Dr. Frank Scott of McGill encouraged ethnic pluralism because of its stimulus to growth and ethnic freedom. Thirdly, Dr. Fregault of the University of Montreal presented the specific problem of English-French relations.

On Saturday evening at a banquet, Dr. Fried of McGill, spoke to about 120 students, viewing culture in its broadest sense. The term is all-inclusive, Dr. Fried pointed out, as much concerned with gesture and facial expression as with fine arts or music.

On Sunday morning Dr. Alastair McKinnon delivered a sermon, which dealt with another aspect of the week-end topic — culture and religion. The problem specifically posed was the relationship between the two; or our responsibilities.

The weekend was looked upon as a success by the delegates, as many views of basic concern were exchanged.

Staff Canvas Yields $321

Members of McGill's faculty and staff contributed some $321 to the World University Service material aid program during a faculty canvass the WUSC committee organized last term. It was announced yesterday.

The committee announced that this money, together with one quarter of the proceeds of the student Combined Charities Campaign, expected to amount to more than $800, would be forwarded to the WUSC office in Geneva in the near future for distribution to needy university communities.

The first speaker of the negative, Blema Solomon, maintained that the purposes of World War II had been attained. Nazi Germany and her ally, Japan, she stated, had wanted to conquer the world, to take away our freedoms and our democracy. These they had not been able to do. We are still free nations and Germany and Japan have been defeated.

United Nations intervention in Korea, Miss Solomon insisted, has shown that we have profited by our mistakes in World War II. We have also learned that the pre-war American isolationist policy was a mistake. No longer will the United States, with all her wealth and power, refuse to take part in world events. No longer will the free powers of the world sit back to watch Russia attempt to gobble up small, powerless countries, she concluded.

The second speaker for the negative, John Fraser, stated that Hitler, in Mein Kampf, had made known his purpose for World War II. This was to relieve the overcrowded living conditions in Germany. This was accomplished. We have conquered the threat of Germany and Japan, Fraser continued, though perhaps we have not achieved peace in the world. We have, nevertheless, progressed.

"We have gained from World War II our survival. We have achieved scientific progress, in physics and in medicine. We have achieved the responsibility of assisting our weaker allies with aid and food. The basic purposes of the World War have been fulfilled. We have learned many lessons," Fraser concluded. "We have profited by these."

Seeley Speaks On University Function

"The Function of a University" will be discussed by the Reverend R. S. K. Seeley this afternoon at 4 p.m. in Moyses Hall.

Dr. Seeley is Provost and Vice-Chancellor of Trinity College of the University of Toronto. He is known for his writings on education and in 1947 he delivered

During the course of the Hazen lectures Dr. Seeley developed his opinion of the part a university should play in the greater community of which it is a part.

Dr. Seeley's address is sponsored by the McGill Branch of the Student Christian Movement. He was invited to McGill by the Reverend James Bishop, General Secretary of the S.C.M. at McGill and will be introduced by Dean James Thomson of the Faculty of Divinity.

Scholarship Deadline Soon WUSC Aided by McGill

Staff Canvas Yields $321

Members of McGill's faculty and staff contributed some $321 to the World University Service material aid program during a faculty canvass the WUSC committee organized last term. It was announced yesterday.

The committee announced that this money, together with one quarter of the proceeds of the student Combined Charities Campaign, expected to amount to more than $800, would be forwarded to the WUSC office in Geneva in the near future for distribution to needy university communities.

Scheme to Offer Coverage of India Seminar this Summer

Deadline for accepting applications for the two McGill scholarships for the World University Service of Canada seminar in India this summer will be Friday, March 13, the WUSC announced yesterday.

Application forms are available at, and should be returned to, the Students' Society office in the McGill Union.

While the scholarships will cover transportation to and from India and tuition, room and board at the five-week seminar, the two McGill delegates and 30 other Canadian students participating should have about $300 each to cover expenses of a study tour following the seminar.

The WUSC committee said yesterday that an attempt would be made to raise the $300 for each McGill delegate from community sources. While no guarantee could be given that the money would be raised, no student should refrain from applying for one of the scholarships because he lacks this sum, the committee said.

The Canadian delegation will leave Montreal by air about the end of May and return about the middle of August.

Full information on the Seminar can be had from John Scott at H.A. 1763.

Extracurricular Versus Academic, Reflectionson McGill Campus Life

By DON ALLEN

(Adapted from one of several articles on various aspects of McGill's 1952-53 college year, written for a special Year in Review issue of The Varsity, University of Toronto.—Ed.)

Football! Dances! Carnivals! Re-views!

Lectures. Labs. Essays. Assignments.

With the battle-to-the-finish between the curricular and the extracurricular swinging into the fourth quarter these days on campuses coast to coast, Joe College, about to rest his nose on the proverbial academic grindstone in a last-ditch stand before the ominous pedagogical tussle of the examination hall, he might do well to hazard a backward glance over the elusive five months that have slipped by.

At McGill at least, amid the blur of lost weekends and lost lectures, Joe's glance might prove to catch many a kaleidoscopic flash of colour.

For the year's had its share of the bright spots amid the haze of the more mediocre. The colourful. The exotic. Fascinating facets of Montreal campus life. Cosmopolitan variety shows, reflecting the national colour of a dozen peoples. Football games with cheerleaders. Christmas cheer and mid-term finals. Formal and informal. Sadie Hawkins festivities. Meetings and debates.

The year had its colour. And the year had its more serious aspects. National conferences of student journalists (Canadian University Press) and student politicians (Progressive Conservative Federation) in the red. New Year's Eve festivities. Hazing-free Freshman Receptions. And lengthy discussion on the possibilities of a new and larger Student Union.

There was the Red and White Review — a silver anniversary production called Naughtily for Knowledge. There was "Forge" — the literary publication — to be written and edited. "Old McGill '53" — the College annual — put on its annual sales campaign at $5 a copy. The Choral Society presented its regular concert, "Sing at Christmas", and was broadcast on a nation-wide hook-up.

This month the big Winter Carnival with a three-day program, a $20,000 budget, and a campus-wide competition for the distinction of being McGill's only Campus Queen. Last month, the Plumb-ers' Ball. Before that, the McGill Prom — switched from "Strictly Formal" to "Dress Optional" but still running true to McGill colours, in the red. New Year's Eve festivities. Hazing-free Freshman Receptions. And lengthy discussion on the possibilities of a new and larger Student Union.

Such are the facets of McGill extra-curricular life that reflect most brilliantly in any glance back over the academic year. The big. The spectacular.

But the little things assume their share of the limelight. The incidents. The joke at the lecture. The mistake in the type in The Daily. The prankster that hang the red lantern by a women's residence door.

The meetings that a dozen attend—memories of campus life for that dozen. The talk in the Short Order Bar. Time wasted on the Arts Building steps. The morning after the night before.

That's all part of the year that's all but over. Next month it's the day of academic reckoning at a make-shift Currie Gym examination hall. After that, tradition looks to a festive informal... that some sadist christened the Flunkers' Fling.

Music Club Will Present Orchestral Concert March 18

The Music Club is bringing to McGill a twenty-five piece orchestra to perform in a free concert on March 18.

The orchestra is that of the YM-YWHA who will present the concert in Moyses Hall. The programme will consist of Mozart's Eine Kleine Nachtmusik, Purcell's Suite from the Fairy Queen, Manfredini's Sinfonia X, Warlock's Capriccio Suite and Vivaldi's Concerto for violin and orchestra in G Minor.

The soloist in the Vivaldi concerto will be the eminent young violinist Meyer Stolvov. Mr. Stolvov has performed in many concerts and was a winner on the Opportunity Knocks programme. In addition he won in 1952 the Archambault Prize in music. Recognized as an exceptionally promising young violinist, Mr. Stolvov made his first public appearance in the Sarah Fischer concert series.

THE ORCHESTRA

YM-YWHA orchestra is composed of non-professional musicians from all walks of life—business men, professional men, housewives, and McGill students. It was formed about four years ago under the direction of Joseph Barljawsky. At present the orchestra meets in the "Y" building on Mt. Royal for weekly rehearsals. The orchestra forms part of the interest and activity of the "Y's" educational department and at present contains about twenty-five members. In recent years the orchestra has presented the received as those of professional concerts which have been as well groups.

JOSEPH BARLJAWSKY

"All McGill students and friends are warmly invited to attend this concert, for it will provide an excellent opportunity to hear the familiar as well as the relatively unknown but interesting music which forms an integral part of our rich musical heritage," said music club president Radoslaw Zuk. The concert will be held in Moyses Hall at 8:15 sharp on Wednesday, March 18.

Student Forum

From the Other Angle

Dear Mr. Editor:

May the following words be taken as: (1) a warning to the students who intend voting in the coming elections, and (2) an admonition directed at the candidates, who, I presume, consider themselves sufficiently informed and capable of filling the offices to which they aspire.

Some people who have had the good fortune to return year after year to this alleged seat of higher learning, this stronghold of profound and particular thought, worshipping and gleaming the artistic and technological cultures; participating in all the cherished activities of this privileged University Community—some of these people are not apathetic. If the accusation of apathy is to be laid at anyone's feet I submit that the dear souls who are responsible for the inept implementation, the inspiration and direction of student activities, take top honours and truly merit the condemnation.

Read, dear friends, the insipid, uninspired platforms of your chosen candidates(?) I quote, "I believe that the apathy toward student government is the result of a relative unawareness of the administrative functions." This is due to the comparative inaccessibility of such important information as allocation of budgets, SEC minutes, and determination of policy. The candidate goes on to propose remedies (Panaceas): concluding with, "To investigate the possibility of the odd cheerleaderette." The poor guy is obviously serious; but sufficiency has no place in selecting a candidate for the Presidency of such an illustrious body of privileged patricians as we, the student body of McGill. The other candidate, a fellow en droit, a one-time scribe; expresses himself adequately—but, the message expressed is one no self-respecting pigeon would condescend to carry.

The case for the Presidency of the McGill Union, on the basis first, of the speeches in the Union Ballroom and second, on the platforms, seems to centre about such serious matters as the re-installation of ping-pong tables and the purchase of collapsible tables and chairs. The usual promises of bigger and better dances, smokers and worthless de-bauches have been shadowed by the visions of a proposed new Union (wherein we will be able to have bigger and more horrible dances, smokers and those other horrible things). As a growing and vital centre of worthwhile social and cultural pursuit and expression, fully justifying its place in the University Community, the present Union sits on the lowest rung. In reading the platforms of the smiling candidates one can only conclude that they are trying to impress us with their janitorial achievements. I would suggest that instead of an election we have a floor washing competition, a ping-pong tournament, and possibly a cooking contest; the winner to be appointed President. In fact, the administration of the Union, its facilities and what have you, in themselves may take one or at the most two hours a week. The President of the Union is in a position to be instrumental in the implementation of a meaningful social and cultural program par excellence; instead he screams apathy, blame it on SCOPE. I ask the illustrious Presidents, in fact, who chooses the chairman of the committees. Need we say more about apathy?

The platforms of the gentlemen contesting the Vice-Presidency of the Union can be summed up—aspirants to the position of assistant janitor. It might be appropriate to remind you, proud people from McGill, that from three to four hundred dollars a year is expended to feed this suite-holder. We should at least insist on a means test, if this is to be merely a handout.

As for the women. What could any one say with such an array of charm and loveliness. I would make but one suggestion. If perchance, perspicacious pretties, you should notice with your clairvoyant eye the slightest inclination on the part of the successful incompetents, above mentioned, in the direction of an expression of an activity or policy which might truly merit the name University—nurse it gently, coax and kindle it by example in your own programmes.

Suits for libel and defamation should be addressed to:

'Save Ronald Genest'

Dear Sir,—Being just as aware of our responsibilities in a democratic world as fellow McGill students Messrs. Glazer, Sheppard, et al., we are, in the spirit of fair play, humanitarianism, and justice, starting a "Save Ronald Genest" campaign.

Because so many young students at McGill show an apparent interest in the commutation of the death sentence of the Rosenbergs, we feel confident that they will rally to the support of Mr. Genest. The Rosenbergs have been proven guilty of treason and thus of plotting to kill not one but thousands of their fellow citizens by giving atomic bomb secrets to an enemy.

Actually Mr. Genest's only crime has been to hit Miss Marie-Paule Langlois on the head with a baseball bat, strip her clothes off (to prevent identification), stab her 32 times in the throat when he found she was still breathing, and then leave her tarpaulin-wrapped body stuffed in a wash tub out in a snowy field on Ile Bizard.

We therefore urge, without reference to his confessed guilt, that when Mr. Genest is to be sentenced for his little misdemeanor he not be given the death sentence. That would be rather cruel. We would prefer to see him rehabilitated, perhaps on a little farm living a long and happy life, growing petunias, and making hand-carved baseball bats.

Very respectfully yours,

The Question Settled

Dear Sir,—We would like to make known through your columns the fact that the portion of the ASUS constitution dealing with the Inter-class Debating Trophy has been recovered.

It states: "Senior intercollegiate debaters shall be ineligible to compete for this trophy." When the lists for this year's competition were drawn up this fact was not known, but since we have discovered it, we feel that the students should know that it does exist.

As far as this year's competition is concerned, there are now two alternatives: (1) To declare the debates so far invalid and start all over again. At this late date in the year this is not feasible, and so if any student chooses to exercise his right and challenge the present competition it will be impossible to award the cup at all this year.

(2) To allow the existing competition to run its course and award the cup to whosoever wins it. We believe this second alternative to be the wiser, and we propose to follow it.

While we do this however, we are aware of our original error, and apologize for it. We ask your acceptance of our decision, and promise that next year the situation will be corrected.

HUGH DURNFORD,
President, ASUS.
HARVEY CRESTOHL,
Chairman, ASUS Debating.

Still Time

Dear Sir,—We should like to congratulate you for the excellent and timely articles on the PROPOSED amendments to our Criminal Code in Tuesday's Daily. However we should like to point out that this bill is not "almost law" as yet. We are informed that although through the Senate, the bill is still in committee of the lower House for study, and will not come up for its final reading for a while yet. Therefore there is still time for interested persons to make their views on the proposed changes known.

These amendments, as was so amply pointed out in your articles, are a matter of great concern for public-spirited citizens of our country. We can recognize the importance of national security; however the proposed legislation is worded so loosely that it imperils the fundamental democratic rights of individuals and groups striving for improvement and change. Democracy must remain dynamic and free if it is to maintain itself against forces of totalitarianism.

Letters to our MPs and to the Minister of Justice expressing this concern, might help our more liberal-minded legislators in their attempts to modify the bill.

Student Undergoes Torture

by Peter Paterson

I had successfully drifted through some sixteen years of schooling, believing all the while that I was leading a comparatively sane and normal life. All these pleasant dreams were somewhat rudely shattered however when, on the advice of a friend, I consulted a psychologist. The appointment was made and all week I looked forward to Saturday noon with a mixture of feelings which in themselves would have made many people neurotic.

The magic hour came and I was seated at a table in a long narrow room. The psychologist, a small, lean man with a Senator McCarthy air about him gave me a few minutes advice on the pitfalls of the tests I was about to take. Then he pushed a vicious looking booklet toward me and a loud stop-watch began to tick ominously. I grabbed a pencil in sheer terror and began to make unintelligible hieroglyphics on the paper to the accompaniment of inarticulate sounds which issued from my parched throat.

A heavy voice said, "stop," and I had failed my first aptitude test. Number two was slightly different and consisted of checking 193 addition sums in two minutes. The test was worked on the right or wrong basis so I went down the margin filling in "R" and "W" at random. I later discovered that my highest mark was in this test.

We went on from torture until at last, saved 'til the end for a fitting finale came a devilish device; I had to write seventy words beginning with the letter "b". The only ones I could think of seemed improper so at the end of three minutes all I had written was "beer" which is a fact not without deep significance according to the psychologist.

After a gruelling half hour the tests were completed and I was dismissed with the request for a second appearance a week later when the tests would have been evaluated and "your special problem considered."

The following week passed slowly and I tried to gather comfort from friends, but it was no good, a leering Honours student told me I would probably discover my L.Q. I did not regard this as a comforting possibility.

Next Saturday found me seated again in the long narrow room, staring in fascination at little wriggly red lines and bar graphs which struggled unsuccessfully to reach the 50 per cent mark. After a learned perusal of the oracles the psychologist looked up and said, "WHY did you come to College?"

This should have warned me, but as yet I was unsuspecting. Next he asked if there was any hereditary insanity in the family and inquired if I had led a suppressed infancy, a repressed childhood or an oppressed adolescence. This left me gasping for breath and all I could manage was a series of short, jerky monosyllables.

"I can see," said the psychologist, "that you have many problems." I hadn't realized this before and it occurred to me that I had been skipping more than one eighth of my necessary worrying. This started me worrying and the wonderful efficacy of the modern psychologist was instantly revealed to me.

Now, thanks to the guidance of a trained observer, I understand the true significance of what I do. No longer do I labour under the delusion that I am a normal specimen, I now have something to live for, something to look after and think about . . . amazing personal problems, hidden frustrations, sublimated desires and three different kinds of mental conflict and inhibition. When I realized that I might have lived for years without discovering the wonderful field of worry that this opens up I am truly thankful to the modern psychologist.

I urge everyone to avail themselves of this opportunity, no longer need you be a drab, well-balanced, uninteresting person; you too can have a deeply buried desire to murder politicians; you too can learn to attribute all your failures to some unfortunate childhood experience. You too may be a hopeless jumble of disorderly conflicting complexes, in fact you probably will be after a session with the psychologist.

Fine Arts Club Talk on Cubism

The role of cubism in Modern Art will be the subject on which Professor Judkins of the Faculty of Fine Arts will address the Fine Arts Club at its last meeting of the year on Tuesday, March 17 at the Fine Arts Studios on Drummond Street. The lecture will be illustrated by slides.

Professor Judkins majored in Fine Arts at Harvard and has since taught at the Universities of Minnesota, Harvard, Amhurst and Ohio. He lectures on the History of Art and also teaches Studio Art. At present he is lecturing on the History of Art at McGill. Professor Judkins has visited and studied in France, Spain, England, Belgium and Italy.

What Is This Thing?

by Leslie Cartier

If you read the Daily occasionally or even use it to line the garbage pail—as does one of my Acquaintances—then perhaps you noticed and were provoked, if ever so slightly, to wonder about things by a series of events recorded in the past few months:

1) Students (male engineering) at Cornell reversed a one-way window in the girls' dormitory.
2) Male students at another eastern college have about two (2) dates per month as compared to 6-8 for the girls.
3) Barnard Coeds Refuse Men Traditional Dating Privileges—from the Columbia Spectator.

4) A female debater here at college who compares women to "angels" and men to "beasts".
I couldn't agree more with the latter premise. I deplore the necessity of No. 1 and wonder about No. 2 and 3.

I wonder in this way: What have they got that two-a-month guys don't have? Well—assuming that the available supply of each is equal—it seems to be like this . . . They have:

a) strategically placed pads of fat supplemented by factory-made (Dupon) substances.
b) excellent control of the facial musculature with an acquired tie of the left (in right-handed ones) eye-lid.

(c) An amazing ability to make you feel as though you were actively aiding the BKTTHWO-TWO* when they are putting away a large steak with mushrooms and several flagons of good French wine, while looking radiant in a "flushed-cheek" and "sparkling-eye" manner that no one weak with anything could possibly achieve.

(In the meantime you utilise the remaining two cm. of aqua dusty in the glass sitting by itself before you to erase the stains on your shiny-blue suit left by that pork chop you had last week.)

"A woman can forgive a man for any harm he does her, but she can never forgive him for the sacrifice he makes on her account, (bank?)." The thought in parentheses is mine and the words of wisdom come from Maugham.

Or as that great lyric poet, Francisco Fyfe, says:

The ladies now are very scarce.
They dress just like the male;
And the "knights" they like are moonlight.
Not ones with suits of mail.
If you find that this incident related above brings tears to your eyes and causes your stomach to contract convulsively, dry your big blue eyes and take another nibble on that soda biscuit. You're the one to blame and not the "hungry ones!"

"They are, he thought, the hardest in the world; the hardest, the cruellest, the most predatory and the most attractive and their men have softened or gone to pieces nervously as they have hardened. Or is it that they pick men they can handle? They can't know much at the age they marry, he thought. And, boy, you'd better truly think and think and think about this paragraph from the Short and Happy Life of Francis Macomber by E.H. Oh, in case you didn't read it, Francis had his head blown off by his wife with an elephant gun. Then he was short & happy. You might also add that he was lucky.

For the sake of strengthening the point of discussion, the USSR and its inhabitants will be excluded, because they have solved the problem of mass happiness & equality between the sexes by divisions of the people into introconversible groups (rather like bees and their sons) and by professing and proclaiming a national state of happiness and peaceful state of mind, which no one—who wishes to live . . . happily—takes exception to.

However, if only for the sake of being different, we are struggling towards a solution in another way. Let's begin:

There is no difficulty in distinguishing the female of the western world from the male at the present time in most cases, but the question of interest is two-fold. First: Is there equality between the sexes? Secondly: If not, then where does the balance of power lie? Or do you men give a hoot? You'd better!

During the 5th to 6th week of foetal life the male and female of the species known as Homo Sapiens (a present day misnomer, if I've ever heard one) are virtually indistinguishable; and, in fact, bear a working resemblance to a pig, cat, dog or any other mammalian foetus in utero at the same stage of development.

WHY don't you care? You'd better . . .

But then this is when the Master Cook adds those extra ingredients of sugar, spice . . . and as an old legend from the Sanskrit states: " . . . the tears of the mist, the inconstancy of the wind, the vanity of the peacock, the softness of down, the hardness of the diamond, the sweetness of honey, the cruelty of the tiger, the warmth of fire, the chill of snow, the chatter of the jay . . ."

All these delightful things going into the female portion, leaving sweet . . . all to the male.
To what aim does it strive, this cold impersonal grasper for equality under the sun? And is equality the final goal, or is supreme rule and ultimate negation of all that is male the plan that lies latent behind her eyes and in the female brain? The Queen Bee idea. But maybe you'll grow to like being a drowsy old drone. Hmmm?

So let him live, they'll say, for he's a useful creature to have plodding beside you, to fawn and comply with the slightest wish or unexpressed desire; but let him for now be stupid and concealed in his ignorance—it won't be long!

"Unconsciously, perhaps, we treasure the power we have over people by the regard for our opinion of them." Maugham.

Perhaps then, for their own salvation, men should regard women as F. John Harris does:

"Ladies become women, women . . . dames. And dames are like neckties—attractive and sometimes necessary. But you should have plenty of changes and never let them hold tightly enough to strangle."

But then Harris relents in a very weak moment: "In the search for Truth and Freedom the path towards Love will lead you astray, but it is in her arms you will rest when you have found the two at the end of your journey."

Kahlil Gibran in The Prophet backs him up with: "For reason, ruling alone, is a force confining; and passion, unattended, is a flame that burns to its own destruction."

Men do not know what they are doing because they do not know why they do it. Poor souls!

So . . . there is no rhyme in the jingle of those pennies (3) in your pocket and so reason why you expose yourself and stomach to these situations—except that you seem to enjoy the whole thing! You say you don't? You'd like to change? Really? Then why don't you? You don't know how? I really don't believe you! I think you—not your stomach—thrive on the hair shirt aspect of it all . . . and, anyway, I'm not going to wise up you "beasts" to our tricks!

Frontier College

Students Engaged in Project In Adult Education

"Lebensraum" is no problem for the instructors and students on the campus of Frontier College—its campus is 4,000 miles wide.

For 53 years F.C. has given instruction and leadership to the migratory men of Canada. Every year sixty undergraduates and graduates of universities all across Canada go into the Canadian hinterland to spend their summer vacation working as labourers with railroad, hydro, bush and mining gangs. Once established in their appointed job as a mucker, in a mine, a lumberjack, or perhaps a navvy on the railroad, these rugged collegians turn themselves to the immediate educational needs of their fellow-workers. Whether it be for teaching illiterates to read and write, a new Canadian to speak English, or arithmetic to would-be clerical workers, they organize classes in whatever space is available and transform themselves from day-labourers to evening teachers.

Fifty-three years ago one of the founders and present principal, Dr. E. W. Bradwin (Columbia U. Ph.D. in Adult Education) began the work by clearing the land, build-

PROSPECTIVE APPLICANTS

For any student who may be interested in applying for a labourer-teacher's job position a Frontier College representative will be on hand for interviewing at the McGill Placement Bureau at 11 o'clock on Saturday, March 7.

Student Society President

Mike Brodeur
Platform

In seeking election I shall do my best to see that the following points are implemented.

- 1) I believe that apathy toward student government is the result of a relative unawareness of the administration's functioning. This is due to the comparative inaccessibility of such important information as allocation of budgets, SEC minutes and determination of policy.
- 2) To remedy this I propose:
  - (a) Posting of SEC minutes in all faculty notice boards, so that every student, at any time, can be fully aware of what his government is doing.
  - (b) Advance notice of the SEC budget meeting so that all interested students can have their say beforehand and the publishing of the completed budget afterwards for a further check.
  - (c) To use every means possible to see that the recommendations of the Massey Report are carried out to help prevent any further increase of fees.
  - (d) To try and keep book prices as low as possible and distribute profits at the end of the year to the student by a rebate plan.
  - (e) Greater recognition of the Women's Union.
  - (f) Full support of the New Union Committee.
  - (g) To reaffirm support of SCOP, NFUS, ISS, and to encourage greater student participation in these activities.
  - (h) To see whether Force can be published more often.
  - (i) To investigate the possibility of the odd cheerleader.

MIKE BRODEUR.

Pen Sketch

The rare combination of executive experience and ability, coupled with a true interest in student activities makes Mike Brodeur the ideal candidate for the presidency of the Students' Society.

Mike, a 23 year old medical student, has proved during his four undergraduate years that he is able to successfully combine high scholastic standing with championship intercollegiate squash and Student Executive activities.

For the past year, Mike has sat on the S.E.C. as Chairman of the Students' Athletic Council, a post which has provided him with a more than adequate comprehension of all phases of student government. We feel that this has given him a broad and objective insight into problems which affect many individual campus groups and opinions, an enviable position.

When considering the activities listed below, we must remember that the experience gained must be found in an individual who is personally able to maintain a friendly liaison between the student body, faculty members, graduates and other universities—Mike is such an individual.

Student Government
Chairman of the Students' Athletic Council;
Secretary of the Scarlet Key Society;
Students Executive Council;
Athletics Representative of the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society;
Member of the Athletics Board and Intramural Athletics Council;
Athletics
Captain of the Intercollegiate Championship squash team—1950-51;
Intramural floor hockey;
Other Activities:
Arts and Science Debating;
Commissioned Officer R.C.A.F.;
Combined Charities;
International Relations Club;
Athletics Night Committee;
McGill representative to Laval Centenary.

Thus we offer you a student who has proved himself executive, athletically, and academically; and who also possesses an added quality which is always extremely valuable in Student Administration—an excellent sense of humour.

Graduate Students

All students in Graduate Studies who have paid their McGill Union and Daily fee of $5 are entitled to vote for President and Vice President of the McGill Union, or President, Secretary and MWSAA President of the Women's Union.

Voting will take place in the Registrar's Office between the hours of 2 p.m. and 4 p.m.

PLAYERS' CLUB

There will be a general meeting of the Players' Club on Thursday, March 5, at 8 p.m. in the Union Clubroom.

The purpose of this meeting is to amend the old constitution and to elect next year's executive. Since this is the final meeting of the year, all members are urged to attend.

Union President

Jim Robb
Platform

Student government is as good as the effort and thought that goes into it. If elected I will do my utmost not only to do my best, but to attract the best out of all those working with me.

Internal Policy
Specifically I would like to encourage:

- (a) A coordinated financial policy, flexible enough to ensure the proper support of all present and developing student interests, yet strong enough to avoid the wastage of student funds.
- (b) Integration of the Undergraduate Societies with the general student governing body.
- (c) To encourage financially and otherwise worthy undergraduate events.
- (d) To allow undergraduate societies the use of Student Executive Council facilities.
- (e) To prevent prejudice to general campus clubs by being under the control of these societies.
- (f) Close cooperation with the Department of Athletics, in encouraging the Intramural Sports Program, the Winter Carnival, Athletics Nights, and a new hockey rink.
- (g) Continuation and intensification of attempts to bring the need for a new Union into prominence.
- (h) Full use of the Academic Interests Committee as a body for assisting in the settling of student grievances and course problems.
- (i) Use Bookstore profits, in part, to aid in the setting up of a Used Book Exchange.

External Policies
I should like to suggest:

- (a) More active co-operation with the McGill Graduate Society to interest them in the McGill student body and their needs. This might be accomplished by graduate functions as SCOP.
- (b) Revitalization and encouragement of a varied program supported by SCOP.
- (c) Allowing NFUS another year to justify our participation, and at the end of that time reassessing our association with that body.
- (d) Giving every support to the program for implementation of the Massey Commission recommendations.
- (e) Support and encourage the McGill Open House.

Basically the platform is directed to attracting a great degree of student participation as possible and to giving every student an opportunity to make use of the facilities offered by the Students' Society.

Jim Robb

Pen Sketch

We, the undersigned, firmly believe that Jim Robb is the outstanding choice for the presidency of the Students' Society.

As president of the Union (and hence a member of the S.E.C.) this year, and as managing editor of The Daily two years ago, Jim has acquired keen insight into the structure and needs of the Students' Society, the Students' Executive Council, the Undergraduate Societies and all major campus activities.

Jim's record, during four years in arts and two in law, speaks for his maturity of judgment, his initiative, his broad knowledge of campus life. He has demonstrated, too, the essential qualities of a sense of humor and facility for working easily with other students.

Beyond managing the affairs of the Union, Jim made two contributions this year which, to our knowledge, no Union president has ever done before. The first was establishment of an effective committee to investigate with the University Speech Bureau, about which there has been a great deal of talk but no action for years.

Secondly, Jim served this year as external affairs chairman of the S.E.C., which involved supervision of all relations with students' societies at other universities and the important work of WUSC and NFUS. In this capacity he was a delegate to the national conferences of both organizations last fall.

In athletics, Jim has been assistant sports editor of The Daily, a member of the Intramural Athletics and Recreational Council, as well as a participant in intramural sports for six years.

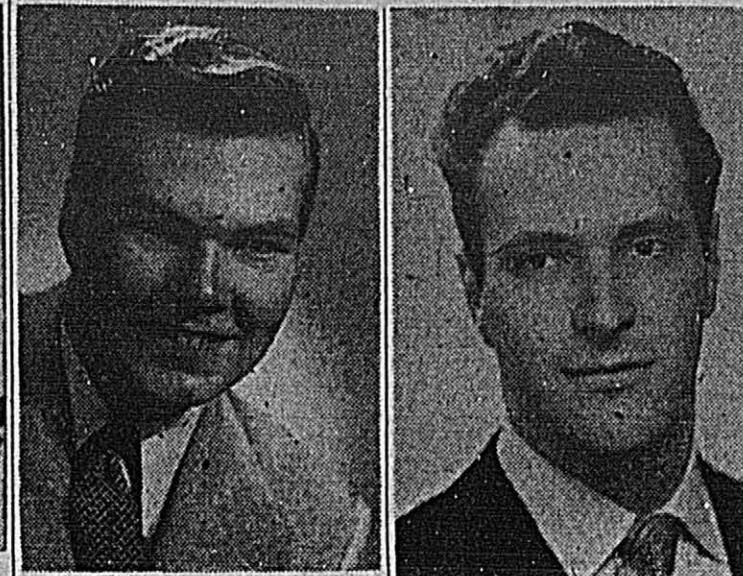

Four years in the University Reserve Squadron of the R.C.A.F. have also served to bring him into contact with other students from across Canada. He has also been business manager of Force, president of his first year law class, and a member of the Tri Service Ball Committee and the Film Unit.

Of paramount importance is the President's duty to represent McGill students before the University administration, other Universities and the general public, and that Jim would fill this role with distinction is indicated by his performance as external affairs chairman.

In fact, it is difficult to imagine how any student's candidacy for this position could be more well founded than Jim Robb's.

Mary Anne Currie
Bill Hutchison
Geoff Crain
Harvey Sigman

Union President

Ian Bruce
Platform

Before outlining my intended program, I should like to point out that the President of the Union has two main functions: 1. the administration of the Union; 2. to conduct a policy which encourages a wide student representation at the Union; and to act as the assistant to the President of the S.E.C. and to handle the internal affairs of the University through the S.E.C.

Should I be elected to this position I am determined to see the following points realized.

Administration
a) An immediate reorganization of the Dates Committee with the President giving more attention to this bureau in order to avoid any further conflict in dates of major campus events such as occurred this year, e.g. Unislink, presented by SCOP, Players' Club production, Harvard debate, and the Architecture party, all of which took place on the same night. In the future all functions will first have to be endorsed by the Dates Committee.

b) No further immediate major expenditures. Such finances must be put towards the future. The University is now more than a mere fantasy. It should be realized within four years. Most important, however, is an immediate clean-up of the entire building with measures taken to ensure a more respectable looking Union in the future. The lack of cleanliness has waned considerably in this building.

c) Having served on the food committee of Douglas Hall and hence had some familiarity with the food problem, I shall take steps to see how the meals may be improved without unnecessary extra expenditure.

Student Representation
Having travelled much to and from Canada, I have been afforded the opportunity to visit many student Unions in the U.S.A. I have seen how these organizations can be and ARE the centre of student life, activities, and interests. Twenty per cent is a good approximation of the per cent of students using our Union and I intend to raise this figure considerably. To do this two things are necessary.

1. A genuine personal interest must be taken by the president in as many student groups as possible.
2. We must encourage more informal gatherings by these groups at the Union until eventually these groups will be a more integral part of campus life rather than isolated Clubs and Societies.

As a resident of Douglas Hall, I have made close contact with the nucleus of a wide number of campus groups and the necessary personal interest to carry out the plan is already mine.

I will also assist the president of the Students' Society whenever necessary to the best of my ability and will represent the student interests in the various phases of campus life especially in regard to the Union.

IAN BRUCE.

Pen Sketch

We, the undersigned, heartily endorse Ian Bruce as our candidate for the Presidency of the McGill Union. We feel that any man occupying this position should have four main characteristics—mature judgment, executive ability, eagerness, and the ability to put hard work into the task at hand. Those who have worked with Ian know that he qualifies highly on all four counts.

Ian hails from Nassau in the West Indies and is presently in his third year, Engineering, where he has maintained a high first class academic standing.

As a resident of Douglas Hall, Ian has a unique position in that he is constantly in contact with a great many students whose interests cover a wide range of extra-curricular activities. Thus he has had a greater opportunity than most students to gain a well-rounded, rather than a one-sided insight into campus affairs and problems—especially in regards to the Union.

Ian is on the residents' Council and on the Food Committee and thus has an excellent idea as to what a student wants in the way of recreational facilities and meals. If elected he will apply this knowledge to the advantage of the few students who use the Union, and will make the Union far more desirable to the many who don't.

- Activities Executive
- 1) Member of Douglas Hall Council which runs all cultural and social activities of the residence.
  - 2) McGill Senate-Student Committee for the investigation of student accommodation in the residence.
  - 3) Food Committee in the Hall.
  - 4) Winter Carnival.
  - 5) McGill Open House.
  - 6) Blood Donor Clinic Centre.
- Honorary Societies
- 1) Scarlet Key Society.
  - 2) Chairman of Publicity Committee for Scarlet Key.
  - 3) Phi Epsilon Alpha—an honorary Engineering Society for which students are selected on the basis of "academic standing together with qualities such as personality, organizational ability and outside interests."
  - 4) Elected member of executive of Phi Epsilon Alpha for next year.
- Athletics
- 1) Squash Team—City League.

Women's Union President

Joyce Iverson
Platform

I should like to thank those who nominated me for the President of the Women's Union. The most important point in my platform is that I elected I shall work hard and to the best of my ability.

Since the women of McGill are represented on the S.E.C. by the Vice-President of the Women's Union, I feel that it is the job of the President to represent student interest as a whole.

1) The open house is a plan that I support wholeheartedly. It is the type of project in which the whole student body can participate and from which they can benefit.

2) A new union is obviously a necessity. I support it on the basis of a closer integration between the activities and experience of the Freshman and Upperclassmen.

3) Freshmen Reception. I feel that the fullest advantages have not been taken of the Freshman Reception. It should be more fully developed to achieve a closer integration between the activities and experience of the Freshman and Upperclassmen.

4) I would encourage a more extensive Cultural Program, sponsored jointly with the alumnae society, to include guest speakers and performers and to take place in R.V.C. so that it is easily available to all Women Students.

The activities of the Women's Union should be more widely publicized so that all students could know of and benefit from them. The non-resident and resident women of McGill should be consolidated into an effective group whose opinion would be respected and whose activities would be more widely recognized.

Joyce Iverson.

Pen Sketch

We are supporting Joyce Iverson for the position of President of the Women's Union because we feel that she is exceptionally well qualified for the job.

The President of the Women's Union must be well acquainted with all phases of student activity at McGill. Joyce has taken part in a varied and active programme. She has devoted herself consistently to an executive, and of her talent for hard work. Above all she has proved that she can meet people easily and speak well before them, both necessary attributes in an office such as this.

Joyce Iverson's record needs no elaboration beyond the facts.

Winter Carnival '51;

Support Joyce Iverson without reservation. We know that if she is elected she will perform her duties ably and conscientiously, and for these reasons we ask for your vote for her in the forthcoming election.

Hillel to Give Final Musicales Sunday 8 p.m.

Hillel will present its major and final musical of the year on Sunday evening, March 8 at 8 p.m. The evening will be devoted to chamber music.

Several eminent musicians will participate in the event. Among these will be Meyer Slaw, the gifted young violinist, who has already been a guest artist at Hillel earlier this season. Pianist-composer Herbert Ruff, who has recently arrived in Montreal, will be present to accompany an original cello sonata which will be performed by Mr. A. Rubin. We will also have the pleasure of having Mrs. Gwyneth Gray, violinist. A trombone quartet will perform some selections to complete the programme.

The programme consists of a Mendelssohn trio for violin, cello and piano; La Folie for Correlli, a cello sonata by Herbert Ruff and a double concerto by Bach for the two violins. This work was originally written for oboe and violin, and has been transcribed. It is a seldom performed work. The trombone quartet will perform La Chasse by N. Tschernopine and Allegro Maestoso by A. Maas.

Refreshments will be served as usual, and all are welcome to attend this evening of chamber music.

Women's Union Secretary

Alison Knox
Platform

I believe that it is a great shame that the Women's Union functions and activities are unknown to a large portion of McGill women, and I should like to see the following steps taken to bring more women into contact with their Union.

- 1) Several teas might be held during the year at which the women-students could meet and talk informally with their executive.
- 2) Better publicity for Women's Union activities is needed. At present the Women's Editor takes care of articles in the Daily, and each separate committee arranges its own publicity. These functions could be centralized in a Member-at-Large appointed in charge of publicity to work with the Women's Editor and to head a committee which could make posters and arrange publicity for all Women's Union speakers, fashion shows, Career Clinics, etc.
- 3) The Women's Union should be in charge of Combined Charities, since it is the women who do most of the canvassing, and since the success of the Dutch Flood Relief Fund showed what the Women's Union can do.

If elected to the post of Secretary of the Women's Union, I shall endeavor to implement this platform and represent the women of McGill to the best of my ability.

Alison Knox.

Pen Sketch

As a result of varied experience in extra-curricular activities both at school and university, Alison Knox is well-qualified for the post of Secretary of the Women's Union.

At school in New York, Alison was active in the Dramatic Society, editor of the newspaper, and managed the student review. In her first year at McGill, she was elected to the post of Member-at-Large to the Women's Union. Alison also took part in the Player's Club production of The Children's Hour. Now a second year Arts student, she is honoring in Political Science and Economics, a member of the Red Wings Society, and on the executive committee of the Arts and Science Debating Union.

In view of Alison's friendly personality and experience in the Women's Union and related activities, we, the undersigned feel she should be elected to the post of Secretary of the Women's Union.

Voting Power

In an interview with one of the members of the Students' Executive Council, the upcoming elections were mentioned. "I wish to make it quite clear that I am not, in any way endorsing any candidate, I want to publicly urge every single student who can vote to come on Wednesday and with his mark on the ballot make his opinion felt. Members on the Council work hard for the interests of students, and it is only befitting that they should be the true representatives of the students. It is the basis of our system, and no student can really have the audacity to say that he does not care one way or other. For students not informed sufficiently, election rallies are organized so they can hear the candidates speak and make some sort of decision as to who should be voted for. And if the rally cannot be attended to, the platforms and pen-sketches appearing in The Daily, should give any student some indication as to whom to vote for. "Everybody should vote!"

PLACEMENT SERVICE
Students in final year courses who desire the assistance of the Placement Service in securing permanent employment should register as soon as possible if they have not already done so. Interviewing hours are from 2:00 p.m.-4:30 p.m. each afternoon.

Daily Banquet Tonight at 7 To End Regular Publication

The 41st Annual Banquet of The Daily will be held tonight at 7 p.m., and will mark the end of regular publication for this year.

Guest speaker will be Mr. Blair Fraser, Ottawa Editor of Maclean's Magazine. Mr. Fraser, who worked on The Montreal Gazette for several years before joining Maclean's is also a regular news commentator from Ottawa for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. He is expected to talk about his experiences as a reporter.

Other guests will include: Principal F. C. James, Dr. A. L. Phelps, H. J. Larkin, Managing Editor of The Gazette; Alan Randal, News Editor; William Skanes, Foreman of the Composing Room; Francis Allen of The Star; Jim Robb, John Scott and Eddie Kingstone, former members of The Daily managing board, and Mel Rothman and Ralph Shackell, President and Secretary of the Students' Society.

The evening's programme will include several after-dinner speeches, the announcement of promotions and awards, and various toasts.

There will be dancing after the banquet for Daily staffers and their guests. Anyone who can be asked to bring records for the occasion.

Geologists
"Geological Report 46" is the name of Dr. T. H. Clark's Geological History of the Montreal Area, which has just been printed by the Quebec Department of Mines and is available "free" to anyone for the asking from the Geological Surveys Branch of the Department of Mines, Quebec. Due to a typesetting error, this was stated incorrectly yesterday.

A.S.U.S. President

Sam Clark
Platform

If I am elected, I shall strive to shoulder the responsibilities and carry out efficiently the duties which fall to the position of the President of the Arts & Science Undergraduate Society. Moreover, I shall make it my special endeavour to examine and carry out the following points which seem to me to require attention.

1. To examine the Executive of the Society. Here, I feel, there is a certain apathy at present, which tends to have a disorganising influence on the Society as a whole. I would also investigate the A.S.U.S. awards system, with a view to greater economy in this field. In my opinion the appropriation received from the S.E.C. could be far more usefully disbursed than it is at present.

2. More organization and better representation in recreational activities. The inter-faculty athletic teams of Arts & Science are not as successful as they could and should be, and I feel that with more organization we could field teams in all sports to leave the Engineers well in the cold. I would also try to arrange more A.S.S. dances which would be a great help in knitting the Artsmen more closely together and aid generally to raise the lacking spirit on the Campus.

3. To improve the Common Rooms in the faculty. The present condition of these rooms is deplorable; I would initiate a program of renovation, concentrating on the furnishing and decorations.

4. The institution of Gen. Nights. The bond between students and members of the faculty is one which does not receive enough attention; it is also one of great use to both, and an excellent method of ensuring its preservation is through the medium of Gen. Nights.

5. To raise the attendance, and thus the calibre, of A.S.U.S. debates. A proficiency in debating is one of the most useful acquisitions for post-college life, and I would endeavor to increase the participation in them by popularization.

On offering myself for your consideration for the position of President, I assure you that I will give a fair representation of all the students in the Faculty of Arts and Science, favoring no one group and requesting suggestions and advice from all.

Pen Sketch

Sam, who came to McGill from Brown University in Providence, R.I., has, through his high school and college life, obtained great experience in numerous executive positions. At high school he edited the school newspaper and annual, and served as chairman of several student council committees. Extracurricularly speaking, he participated in major sports, notably football and baseball, and was president of the Dramatic Society. At Brown he continued in his executive capacity as a member of the Freshman Council, the governing body of the freshmen class; he also represented his faculty in inter-faculty sports.

He arrived on our campus last year, and spent his first year at McGill orienting himself in the new academic life. Now, having felt the pulse of the campus as a comparative onlooker—in this respect he has already served as assistant tennis and program managers, whose full duties he will assume in the Fall—we consider him fit to participate in student activities more fully.

Lou Schiff
Platform

Every year, platforms are opened with "if I'm elected, I promise..." I will not say I promise, but rather what I will try to do.

It is a known fact that better facilities are necessary in the common room of the Arts Building, and I would like to see this come about this year. The various campus organizations sponsored by ASUS (it aided financially) could progress further and be of more enjoyment and have more students participate in their activities. I will try to get this financial aid. I would also like to see more co-ordinated inter-faculty sports and informal social affairs.

These are not promises but suggestions I would like to see carried out. In any case, cast your vote, and exercise your franchise, and may the best man win!

Lou Schiff.

Pen Sketch

Lou Schiff came to McGill in 1950 from Baron Byng High School and is presently in his third year of science, majoring in Biochem.

During his career at McGill he became active on the campus in many activities. In 1950 he was secretary-treasurer of the Chess Checkers Club, and has been president for the last two years. In this capacity he organized many trips and tournaments which proved very successful.

We the undersigned think Lou would be a capable president having executive ability and organizing drive and would like to see him as president of A.S.U.S.

E.U.S. President

Harvey Goodwin
Platform

If elected President of the Engineering Undergraduate Society, I will advocate a policy of closer student-professor relationship. I will do my best to see that the Engineering student is well represented in all matters in which he cannot speak for himself.

I will re-organize the committee responsible for the printing and distribution of mimeographed notes so that all years will benefit equally.

I will do my best to re-establish a second hand book exchange similar to the one which operated very successfully at Dawson College.

I will provide more organized smokers with the appropriate entertainment and refreshment.

I will see that several student-professor "get-togethers" are held throughout the year with the aim of better student-professor understanding.

If elected I will do my best to organize the E.U.S. so that it may truly be called the voice of the undergraduate engineer at McGill.

Harvey S. Goodwin.

Harvey S. W. Goodwin, nominee for the position of President of the Engineering Undergraduate Society.

Harvey was born in Montreal, and after attending Westmount High School, where he was very active in sports, came to the University through Dawson College.

At Dawson, Harvey was a member of the Intercollegiate Ski Team and a member of the Camera Club. Since coming to McGill in 1950, Harvey has taken an active interest in student engineering affairs. He was elected to the Scarlet Key Society last December, and is senior representative to the Engineering Institute of Canada; he also represents his class on the Curriculum Committee.

Recognizing Harvey's ability to carry out with energy and determination any task to which he is set, we the undersigned heartily endorse his name for the presidency of the Engineering Undergraduate Society, believing he possesses all the qualifications for the position.

During my three years at McGill, I have noticed a substantial improvement in the academic standards and the "spirit" of the School of Commerce. However, the one main function it is still lacking academically, is a practical, rather than a theoretical view of business life. Also, there is still room for improvement for Commerce's "esprit de corps". In short, I intend to contribute a number of policies which will help the growth of Commerce from a "school" to a "faculty". These include:

(1) Due to the immense popularity of the tours, they will be increased so that every Commerce man will have the opportunity of seeing in operation the key industries, banks, and investment houses of the Montreal area. This would make your commerce education at McGill include a view of its more practical applications.

(2) There will be a number of "talks" by prominent business men. The talks will be designed to help us decide which field of business we wish to choose upon graduation, as well as a discussion on current business topics.

(3) The Commerce Athletics programme will be extended to encourage more participation.

(4) The Commerce Banquet-Smoker will be continued.

(5) Steps will be taken to see if it is possible to hold a Commerce Ball.

(6) The Commerce News column in the Daily will be extended.

When I ran for Secretary of the Engineering Undergraduate Society last year, I said in so many words that any man who makes election promises is a fool of no mean stature. I still maintain the truth of that statement. However, after two years on the E.U.S. Executive, I have some firm ideas on what should be done by the E.U.S. to improve the lot of the Engineer.

In brief, I believe that the policies of the E.U.S. should be directed towards:

a) Improvement of House facilities. The common room is woefully inadequate and efforts to have a second Common Room or Lounge established should be continued.

Library conditions must be improved and the present locker facilities repaired and expanded.

Expansion of student activities, particularly among the lower years. Membership in the departmental clubs should be encouraged in year 2M and 3M.

d) Securing of closer relations between the students and the Staff.

Functions like Gen-Nite and Meet the Staff Night must be encouraged.

c) Maintaining the present sound financial condition of the E.U.S.

I would like the opportunity to carry out these aims and if given it, I promise to give the job the best of my efforts—that is the one and only election promise that I will make.

Stan McGurk.

Stan McGurk is well-known around the Engineering Building and needs little introduction. He has been associated with the Engineering Undergraduate Society for several years and has always shown himself to be keenly interested in the welfare of his fellow Engineers.

Entering second year McGill in 1950, after being very active in student government and athletics in high school, Stan soon became involved in E.U.S. work. This year he has held the post of Secretary of the E.U.S. and the year before that was Co-Manager of Publicity. For a year and a half, ending this past Christmas, he has also been the author, under the alias of "Mack," of the infamous publication, "The Plumber's Poll."

The M.W.S.A.A. is designed to encourage and to integrate athletic and recreational activities for women students. In accomplishing this, it should serve both those people interested in competitive sports, and those concerned with spontaneous recreation.

To properly fulfill this function, I advocate support of the present system of inter-faculty, intercollegiate activities, and the providing of facilities for students interested in occasional athletic exertion. This latter plan could be accomplished if the M.W.S.A.A. supplied the R.V.C. gym with basketballs, volleyballs, badminton birds etc. which girls could use for spontaneous games or shooting practice when the gym was free.

Thus students who could not commit themselves to a definite athletics schedule could, nevertheless, enjoy these recreational facilities at their leisure.

Investigation and, where possible, implementation of the following proposals would, I believe, greatly benefit women's athletics: 1) DIRECT representation of the M.W.S.A.A. on the S.E.C. rather than the present indirect representation through the S.A.C.

2) Increased publicity of women's athletic activities.

3) Increased participation on "Athletics Nights" by women's teams.

4) Investigation of the M.W.S.A.A. organization to determine if more responsibility should be undertaken by the student members.

My position on the M.W.S.A.A. has impressed me with the necessity of promoting this organization and women's athletics as a whole at McGill. Few women realize or take advantage of the various well organized and well equipped sport clubs. I believe increased participation and interest can be fostered in several ways.

Publicity is always important, not only through the Daily and posters, but by added contact of the council with the student body. In this regard I feel the Freshman Preview is very important and should be better organized and publicized. The intra-mural sports council could be valuable in stirring up participation, and should be encouraged to expand its program and work more closely with the M.W.S.A.A.

Representation is to me the most important project at the present time. If the members of the council worked on Athletics Nights and the Carnival Committee, women's athletics could play an important role in these events. The clubs are eager to compete if the opportunity and encouragement were given.

As a representative of the Students Athletics Council, I would endeavor to create added recognition of the organization as well as the individual sports interests.

Having worked with the Women's Union as well, I am extremely interested in furthering the women's contribution to McGill as well as increasing the benefits that can be derived from our organization.

The purpose of the M.W.S.A.A. is to promote and increase interest in the various sports available to Women Students at McGill. Increased publicity, to bring to closer attention the numerous sports available to the students, is one way of accomplishing this end. This, I feel, can be done through a special M.W.S.A.A. column in the Daily, by greater coverage of all Women's Sports, not only in the Daily but in leading Montreal newspaper, and by notices in the various buildings informing the students of the activities of each club.

Co-operation with the Women's Union and the Intramural Council is essential to smooth functioning within these three major Women's organizations for the greater advantage of the students.

It would be to the advantage of the Women students to have a M.W.S.A.A. representative on the Winter Carnival and the Athletics Night Committees to promote their participation in these events.

If elected, I will endeavor to fulfill my duties to the best of my abilities.

Bente Jepsen.

In backing Bente for President of the M.W.S.A.A., we feel she could more than adequately fulfill the duties of so important an office as this highest student position in Women's Sports at McGill.

Her interest in extra-curricular activities began in St. Laurent High School. She was Captain of the Basketball, Volleyball and Badminton teams and was also Senior Champion of the Track team. She became familiar with Executive duties at this time by holding positions on the Student's Council and the Red Cross Council, thus as well as participating in extra-curricular activities she was also familiar with the executive duties involved.

At McGill she has continued her interest in sports and is familiar with the activities of the M.W.S.A.A. and Intramural Councils; last year holding the position of Intramural Representative and this year Manager of the Rifle Club.

We feel Bente would also make a good president because of her academic standing, she has scholarships in High School and has continued to hold them for her three years at McGill, and her past

the Sport CIRCUIT

(Let's review some of the more memorable moments in sports history just for oldtime's sake. We may be compelled to go way back into the past to recreate a few of these dramatic scenes, but after all, weren't they the good old days?)

1. The setting is Briggs Stadium in Detroit. It's the 1941 Major League all-star game. Ted Williams, baseball's greatest slugger, is the batter with two out and two on. The score is 5-4 for the National League, and the American League is up for its last gasp in the bottom half of the ninth. Williams blasts a tremendous drive high into the seats to give the A.L. a stunning 7-5 comeback victory. That was Ted's greatest thrill in his spectacular career.

2. Los Angeles' high-powered Rams are leading Cleveland Browns in the 1950 pro football final, 28-27, with about two minutes to play. The Browns are on their own 32 seemingly finished. Otto Graham pitches a few of his specialties and then moves the ball into position for a field goal himself. Lou Groza then kicks a 16 yard field goal in the dying seconds and the Browns are champs, 30-28.

3. Bobby Thomson is up in the deciding game of a two out of three play-off for the National League pennant in 1951. It's the last of the ninth and the Dodgers lead 4-2 with two on and one out. Ralph Branca, wearing number thirteen on his back, deals to Thomson, and Bobby lines one into the lower left field deck to win for the Giants 5-4 and turn the Polo Grounds faithful into a bunch of raving maniacs. Buzzy Bavasi is a weird shade of green as Leo Durocher and Eddie Stanky wrestle each other to the earth.

4. Murderers Row (the New York Yankee batting order in 1927) is taking its cuts the day before the opening of the World Series with Pittsburgh Pirates. The Pirates, N.L. champs, are sitting in the stands watching as Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Bob Meusel, Tony Lazzeri, Earle Combs, Benny Bengough, Mark Koenig and Joe Dugan take turns bashing the ball into the stands.

It is a most terrifying display of sheer power. Ruth and Gehrig in particular are making Forbes Field look like a bandbox as they clout one after the other out of the park. The Corsairs are beaten right there before a pitch is thrown. The Yankees win the series in straight games.

5. Canadiens are trailing Chicago 4-1, in the fourth game of the 1944 Stanley Cup finals. Canadiens held a 3-0 edge in games in the series, and Montreal Forum fans are a mile disgusted that Canucks aren't able to poll off the Hawks and win the cup on this particular night. In fact, the fans are so disgruntled that they start to cry, "fake" and "fix."

It's the third period, and the haughty Canucks, their pride injured, fight back as Elmer Lach scores to make it 4-2. But the Hawks battle to hold the lead and with less than five minutes to go they still have that precious two goal margin. Then a young star, who had set the league on fire in the last half of the season and the play-offs, blasts home two fast markers to knot the count. That pair sends the Canucks into overtime and Toe Blake's overtime counter brings the Stanley Cup to Montreal.

By the way, the youngster whose two goals saved the situation that night, was a fellow named... let's see now... oh yes... Maurice Richard.

6. The Yankees and Red Sox are in the midst of an extra-inning spine-tingler in the fall of '48. It's the third game of a crucial three game set of which the Red Sox have already won two. The Bronx Bombers need this one badly to hold their slim lead in the A.L. race which is currently a three team affair, involving these two clubs and Cleveland.

The aged reliever, Earl Caldwell, is pitching to Joe DiMaggio in the top of the twelfth with the score tied and Red Sox fans are imploring him to get the Yankee Clipper out of there. The bases are loaded and DiMag is always at his best in the clutch, besides being especially poisonous at Fenway Park.

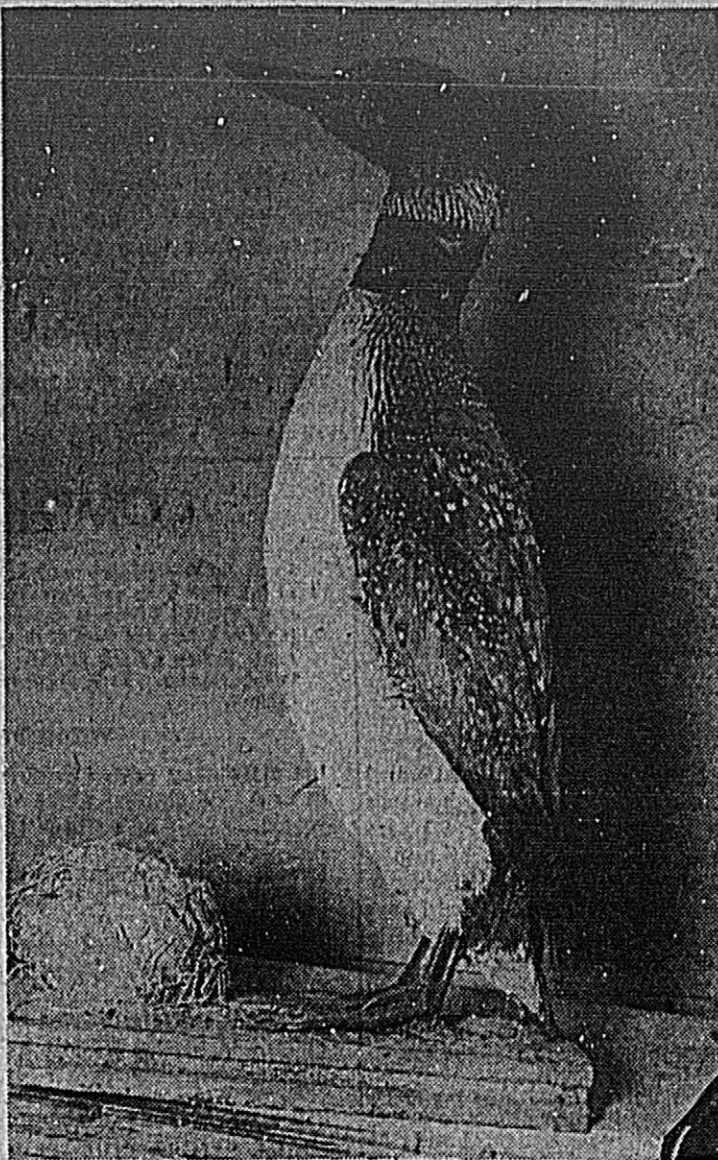

Joe D. clubs a long drive down the left field line which curves foul before soaring over the wall. Fenway fans breathe easily again as Caldwell mops his brow. Caldwell pours the next one through and DiMaggio calmly belts it into the center field stands to break up the old ball game. The Fenway folk should have known it was going to happen. You can't beat a guy like DiMag when the chips are on the line.

Braves Bid to Play Gaels For Title

Ross Hutchins faces a tough task this Friday as his Intermediate Braves tackle the Loyola Warriors in the first game of a twin-bill. The Warriors are currently leading the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Conference and are rated as the team to beat.

The Braves are a game behind the league-leaders but have a game in hand. That one contest represents the postponed game with Queen's which was melted out last week. Should the Red and White take the measure of the West-enders this weekend, they will play Queen's for the championship. In a practice session held yesterday, the Inter played Rocky Robillard's aggregation to loosen up both teams for the double-header, and the Braves were edged out by a 3-2 count. What this means isn't exactly the easiest thing in the world to define. Either the Redmen were having an off day, or the Braves were playing like champions. Let's hope that it was the latter, and that they continue to keep up the pace until Saturday morning.

By all indications, the double-bill this Friday promises to be the feature attraction of the year as far as intercollegiate hockey is concerned. The first game, between the Inter and Loyola Warriors, is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. sharp.

Redmen Track Team Treks to Hamilton for Canadian Indoor Cinder Championships

It's destination Hamilton and the Canadian Indoor Track Championships for our indoor tracksters this Friday afternoon when they leave aboard the Toronto Flyer bound for the Mountain City. Six men will be sporting the Red and White colors on the weekend: Winslow, Sloan, Menard, Sanderson, Shohet and Mercereau.

The sextet has been entered in two relay races, The Collegiate Mile Relay and the Open Mile Relay. Coach Cowan has his eyes on the Collegiate title but from the looks of things it won't be easy picking.

McGill ran second to Western in the outdoor relay classic so that the Londoners will start the race as favorites. They boast of the stupendous Bruce Waller. Waller won the intercollegiate outdoor mile and half-mile races as well as running the anchor lap for the winning relay team. He was awarded the trophy as the outstanding athlete of the outdoor championships.

Western won't be the only contender either. McMaster is also believed to have a powerful entry spearheaded by Mark Koenig and Don McFarlane. The former was intercollegiate quarter-mile champion and the latter a Canadian Olympic entry in the dashes as well as being Collegiate 100 and 220 yards champ.

Toronto and Queen's, though not displaying any outstanding stars, both have extremely well balanced teams and are no means out of the running.

Menior Cowan, just to ensure sufficient competition for his charges during the course of the evening, will have his boys take a crack at McKenley, Rhoden, Whitefield, and Stanfield in the Open Mile Relay. In case you are not familiar with the aforementioned quartette here, in brief, are but a few of their accomplishments.

Herb McKenley holds the world's 440 yard record as well as being co-holder of two Olympic records. George Rhoden has among his numerous accomplishments the world's as well as the Olympic 400 meter mark. Both boys were members of the Jamaican Olympic squad.

Mal Whitefield has just recently set the world's indoor 500 and 600 yard marks and also holds the Olympic 800 meter record. Andy Stanfield, the last of the famous foursome, is co-holder of the Olympic 200 meter record. All in all they should provide some keen competition for our own relay squad.

The meet is scheduled for Saturday night with some of the heats to be run off in the afternoon.

Wilson's Injuns Have Chance To Share Intermediate Title

A miscalculation in the fates of two teams in the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Conference once again gave Smiley Wilson's intermediate cagers a chance for a part of the league crown.

Carleton College Ravens did an abrupt about-face and dropped three straight games. The final standings now have Sir George Williams in first place with one loss, and the Indians tied for second with two losses.

The hope arises from the fact that McGill still has a postponed game left with Sir George. A win for the Indians in the game taking place this Friday will put them in a first place tie and give them a share of the title. There is no play-off in the league.

The Sir George crew has won every engagement since it lost its league-opener at Ottawa. They have also played numerous exhibition games including one against the senior Redmen. Though out-classed in this tilt to the tune of 73-57, they showed a fine pivot man in the person of six-foot Tom Parrot. The lanky American opened up for 17 points and showed a lot of class in the court game.

The Georgian crew possesses a lot of experience despite the fact that they lost many of last year's regulars. Dick Thompson, a high-percentage nucleus for Coach Mag Flynn's group.

The Indians will also be out to scoring guard, provides plenty of speed and helps to form an ex-average last year's loss to Sir George. Of the three games, they dropped in the '52 campaign, they made up for the U. of M. defeat last weekend and will be looking forward to completing the job this Friday.

Red vs. Green and Gold in Extramural Sports Festival

Competitions in five sports will highlight the Extramural Sports Festival scheduled for March 4th between MacDonald College and McGill. Both men and women will

Men and women will be competing in Badminton. Men's Volleyball will be played on court one with the Women's teams playing on court three.

The McGill swimmers take on The Green and Gold in the men's swimming at Memorial Pool while the Rifle Range will be the scene of both Men and Women meets.

The feature attraction will take place at 8 p.m. when the men's Basketball tilt will be played. The last event on the program is the women's swimming and this meet should get started by 8:45 p.m.

All the sports will be between the various Intramural teams both here and at MacDonald.

Crew Cut Coach Cuts Capers Contemplating Next Clash

If you want to see a happy guy take a look at Rocky Robillard. The crew cut coach is grinning from ear to ear these days and why not? His rip-roaring Redmen are sailing along on a five game unbeaten streak and there's not a guy in town who'll say that they won't make it six this weekend.

The Red and White do battle with the Blues from Toronto this Friday at the Forum. There's probably some sad sack who'll pipe up around now with the statistic that the Redmen haven't beaten the Blues yet this year.

Just take a fast glance at the records and see exactly how the locals have fared against the Varsity gang. It's true they haven't beaten them but they've come as close as you can come without actually winning the darn game.

BLUES TOOK FIRST

In their first battle, here in the Atwater Ice Palace, the Blues took the game 4-3, but they had to go into overtime to do it. The Redmen outplayed them all over the place but the breaks and the better conditioning of the Toronto tribe put the game in the loss column as far as the Redmen were concerned. Rocky's warriors had more bad luck than a Scotchman on March 17 in that one. They tore in on the Toronto goalie and blasted the puck only to have it hit the post or a skate or some other infernal unaccountable obstacle.

Near the end of the game and in the overtime session the Redmen's lack of practice began to show all over the place as their skating slowed down to a walk and the boys began to get winded. That was when the Blues got the winning goal.

Until then Toronto had been behind in all departments including territorial play, shots on goal and any other statistics you care to throw in. So the Blues won a squeaker from the Redmen in overtime.

The next time the Redmen ran into the Varsity sextet the action took place up in the Queen City. The Redmen had just come from winning their first game of the season up in Laval and they were really set on beating the Blues.

The game turned out to be a fluke from the first whistle. Penalties were dished out all over the place till there were more players in the sin bin than on the ice. For the rest of the game the refs called it easy and stuff went by that in an ordinary game would see the penalty box playing to Standing Room Only.

FOUR CALLED BACK

Penalties were only the half of it. No less than four (that's right, four) goals were called back for one reason or another. The Blues lost two and the Redmen the same number. Three of the markers were erased because there was some wayward forward parked in the goal crease. The fourth cancelled counter was a real dilly. The Redmen's snazzy centre, Pete Constable, on a breakaway, raced toward the Toronto net in the last minute of the second period. Just as the period ended Constable blasted one past the Toronto twine-tender to make it 4-3 for McGill. The goal was called back because the siren went just as Constable uncorked his blast. That's all right in itself except that the cockeyed clock stopped at 19:59. So the Redmen tied the Blues 4-4.

Adding it all up the Redmen tied the Blues and lost one to them. Both of the games were slightly tainted in one way or another but still it's only one tie and one loss.

As the Red and White prepare for the Friday night affair they are in a different position than either of the two preceding tilts. If the Redmen can bounce the Blues in this one they can go into third place in the loop standings. Third place isn't exactly sitting on top of the world but after the place that the Redmen were destined to go this year that third place slot is just pure Heaven.

Not only will they be in third place but they'll only be two points out of second place. These Redmen are really aiming to get up in this world.

The crew is rarin' to rip the Blues to bits. They figure that they should have smeared them up in Toronto. The locals outshot the Blues 46-19 but still the fluke fracas ended up in a stalemate.

The Redmen are red-hot these days and are a good bet to rack up this tilt no matter how you look at it. The defence corps is one of the strongest in the league and Bob MacLellan in the nets for the Red and White is the proud owner of a pocket-sized 3.6 goals against average.

The thing that really puts the Redmen in a happy ligh with the Peel St. prophets is the production lines. The attacking trios are really starting to produce in sizzling style. Pete Constable, who is leading the team in the assist department, picked up three goals on the Michigan massacre and looks like he's really hitting his stride.

Whitley Schutz is clipping along at nearly a goal-a-game average. Jack Lynch and Wally Eno are really on the scoring beam and in general the team is really rolling. They're really up for this game and the way things look now it's a good bet that the Redmen are going to be in third place by Monday morning.

WHAT NO RICHARD
One of the few scoring records that Rocket Richard does not hold is most goals in one game. This record is held by Joe Malone who once netted seven markers in one game.

McGill Quintet to Play Twin Tilts Against Ontario Crews

By MARTY GOODMAN

The McGill Senior Cage quintet will finish off its 1953 season this weekend when they entrain for a two-game series in the far reaches of Ontario. Friday night will see the Redmen facing Marauders at Hamilton while the final wraps will be put on Saturday night at Toronto.

The best the Redmen can now hope for is to finish the campaign in fourth place. By taking both encounters they will end up with a four and six record while the loss to McMaster will sink them in fifth place.

Coach Joe Anderson's boys will have themselves quite a job to be successful in their weekend venture. While McMaster only managed to edge the Redmen 47-45 in their first engagement, Toronto has been flying high, wide and handsome lately as can be seen by their remarkable upset over Western last weekend.

The Redmen's latest two defeats fail to prove very much except that the team does not have the ability to play together. As individuals they are fine, but as a collective group they only have potentials. Too many players concentrate on scoring themselves instead of waiting for a better chance or giving the ball to a team-mate in a better position.

Monday night's game with the YNHA for the Dodd's Cup was excellent support of this idea, as the Redmen missed innumerable scoring chances by hogging the ball. Nevertheless, this year's Red-Redmen have made an improved showing over last year's squad. Though their record is not much better in the won and lost column they have been giving their opponents a much better fight each time out. The biggest improvement can be seen in inter-collegiate play, where McGill won its first games in two years' campaigning.

The Redmen even managed to move out of the league cellar and clearly showed they could not be considered doormats of the league.

In individual scoring Mel Mikalchik retained his 9-point lead over centre Sheldon Merling. Gordie Edwards, despite the fact that he was used sparingly Saturday due to a case of flu, only lost one point of his margin over fourth place Hugh Raphael. The latter, however, played his best games of the season in the weekend tilts and saved the Redmen countless points through his fine defensive play. Harry Wipperfurth failed to move up in the standings but greatly increased his total points as he too showed his best form of the season.

the Queen's beasts

Visitors to the Coronation this year will have a chance to see the Queen's beasts. They will form a line of sculptured animals, sitting upright, six feet in height, in the Annex of Westminster Abbey. Here they are:

The Lion of England, the Unicorn of Scotland, the Falcon of the Plantagenets, the Griffin of Edward III, the Bull of Clarence, the White Lion of Mortimer, the Greyhound and the Dragon of the Tudors, the Yale of the Beauforts and the White Horse of Hanover.

The study of Heraldry is an ancient art and a fascinating one. For example, we learned from an expert that a Yale hasn't anything to do with a university, or the boys that play the "Princeton" and the "Harvards". A Yale, or Jall, or Eale is a fabulous creature with horns and tusks. It's white with yellow spots and used to support the arms of the Lady Margaret Beaufort, who was the mother of Henry VII. And we'd rather see than be one.

Another ancient art is brewing. It's ancient right here in Quebec, where the ale that's preferred over all other brands combined has been brewed by one family on the same site since 1786. For that's the date when Quebecers first began using the amiable phrase: "Make Mine Molson's". And you don't have to travel to the Coronation to find the interesting evidence.

Mustang Crew Clinch Hoopla Laurels

University of Western Ontario added another to their list of major titles when the court Mustangs took their eighth straight Inter-collegiate Basketball Championship. By knocking over McMaster 76-63 last week, they insured themselves of ending at least one game ahead of Toronto.

The Blues pulled the upset of the season, though, when they edged the Mustangs 82-79 last Friday. It was Western's first loss at home in 25 games, and only their third in their last 54 tilts. This season, it was their first loss after nine straight victories.

Lou Lukenda led the Blues to their upset win as he ran wild throughout. Ray Truant paced the Mustangs to increase his standing in the Intercollegiate Point Parade. Toronto's double win over the weekend leaves them four points behind the league-leaders with a game left. The final will be against McGill this weekend. The Blues clipped Assumption 69-56 Saturday to leave the latest entry to the league languishing in the cellar with a two and eight record.

Queen's win against the Redmen gave them third place with an even split over the campaign, five won and five lost. McMaster, idle in intercollegiate play, dropped four points behind with a three and six record.

The Mustangs will now represent Eastern Canada in the inter-collegiate basketball finals, taking on the winner of the Coast and Prairie leagues.

In non-Athletic capacities, Jeanette is Vice-President of the Women's Union, and as such serves on the Students Executive Council. With such experience in both athletics and executive work, we feel Jeanette would be very capable as president of the M.W.S.A. Her past interest and enthusiasm in the organization is a splendid recommendation.

That longed-for, looked-for time... Convocation... seems at last to be in the far distant future. But "tomorrow" is not a day on which you can rely. Before you know it, exams will be over. Spring will be here and the day when you'll want to look your pretest and create the best impression ever, will have dawned.

During these next few weeks, before your busy, pre-exam study time rolls around, give a little thought to yourself. How are you going to look and feel on this day you will never forget? Do you possess the many things that spell "confidence"? By that we mean, are you at ease wherever you go... whatever your activity? Have you learned how to look your best round the clock, round the year... pressed and groomed to fit your personality? Are you proud of your figure? Do you enter a room gracefully with the self-assurance that brings you flattery and admiration? When you speak, is your voice soft and pleasant?

These assets are all part and parcel of the famous John Robert Powers' training... a training which makes a successful new YOU... today, for the years to come.

Union Vice-president

Alex Derry
Platform

During my past year and a half at McGill, I have found a growing apathy for the Men's Union, which seems to have started several years ago. In fact, the Union is ceasing to be the centre of campus life, and is becoming merely a place for organizations to carry out their business. This should not be the primary reason for the existence of the Union. The Union should serve as a centre for relaxation and recreation. At present less than 20 per cent of McGill's students use it for this purpose. Perhaps some of the fault lies in the policy of the past administration, and new ideas and opinions are needed to handle the day to day problems.

Great physical changes in the Union are at present unnecessary, and would only divert money from the New Union Fund, which would delay the construction of one of the most needed buildings on the campus. I believe that minor repairs should be made, when necessary, in the present building, but that no major renovations should take place, as $50,000 has been allocated already for this purpose in the last five years. A higher standard of cleanliness could improve the building a great deal at no additional expense.

The buying of folding chairs for the use of campus clubs should be completed, because they are urgently required, and would be available for the new building. In co-operation with the heads of clubs, I would like to see more dances held in the Union, not only for the large organizations, but informal parties put on by the smaller clubs on the campus, which would provide inexpensive recreation for their members.

Under the Union Dates Committee, I will endeavor to see that all outside organizations using the Union adhere to the rules and regulations of the University. I will also see that the committee runs in complete co-operation with the clubs and faculties on the campus. Reliable sources indicate that a start on the New Union will be made in three to five years. I feel that the executive of the Union should strongly support planning for a new Union.

I will, if elected vice-president of the Union, strive with the Union executive to bring about a more wholesome atmosphere for those who use the Union now, and try to make the Union a place where a majority of the students might also like to relax.

Alex Derry came to McGill in 1951 after taking an active interest in athletics and student government affairs at high school. He is presently in his third year civil engineering.

Although he has been at McGill only a year and a half, Alex has already shown a good deal of ability in organizational work. He served on the executive of the Combined Students' Committee in 1952, and is at present Publicity Chairman of the McGill Open House Committee, which is drawing up plans for a university-wide open house in November.

We the undersigned believe that Alex is well qualified for the position of Vice-President of the McGill Union, and, noting his keen sense of responsibility and organizational ability, we have no hesitation in recommending him for that position.

John stands for election on the basis of this outstanding record. If you feel as we do that the position demands intelligence, high calibre executive ability, integrity and an unlimited capacity for hard work, John is the man you will want to represent you as President of the Students' Union for 1953-54.

While I am perfectly aware that in my function as vice-president of the Union I will be largely called upon to carry action through, not to initiate it, nevertheless, I would like to see several changes in the Union carried out. I will do my best to see that the following improvements are carried into effect.

Although it is manifestly impossible to maintain continually a policy of increasing food quality and lowering prices, nonetheless, I believe that the unpopular dishes were eliminated, new menus introduced, and a greater frequency of the more popular meals implemented, that food service would rapidly improve.

I would like to see started the purchase of a stock of folding chairs on a yearly proportionate basis. This would save a large amount of rental money at present being spent.

My fullest support will go to the New Union Committee. I would also like to see completed the Union Five-Year Plan for renovation of the Union.

The lounge on the second floor could very well do with more magazines. I would try to get the rental of a TV set also—something Students hear about but seldom see. The Radios in the Lounge could also do with a repainting.

Since the New Union will not be with us for a while, all my platform has been towards improvement of present facilities. This I will make sure is done.

David Gould, a third year Arts Student who entered McGill on a scholarship, from Westmount High School, has been active in many campus activities and has held several responsible executive positions.

As quartermaster of the Redmen Band last year, he completely reorganized the whole department and greatly increased its efficiency. This year he has been elected manager of the Band's activities, due to his efforts alone that the Band played at the Winter Carnival Parade. He has become a 2nd Lieutenant in the COTC and was elected to the Mess Committee.

In addition to this he was in charge of all army duties for the Tri-Service Ball, which included decorations, gym contract, bar sales, army ticket sales, and publicity.

Some of his other activities include the Red and White Review, Choral Society, the P.C. Club (where he is publicity manager), the Special Group of the Choral Society, the Camera Club, and the McGill Film Unit's production of Grunch.

To every position he has held he has brought a considerable talent for organization and executive work. We feel sure that he will continue to apply his genius at administration in this new field also.

Blair came to McGill in the Fall of 1950 from West Hill High School. While at West Hill, he was active not only in sports (football, hockey and track) but in the Students' Council as well, where he served as Students' Council Representative to the N.D.G. Community Council.

At McGill, Blair has played intermediate football for two years and this year was elected to the Scarlet Key Society.

Blair is a serious student, as may be shown by the fact that he took his entire second year of Commerce at night last year, while working with a firm of Chartered Accountants during the day.

We feel that Blair is the right man for this job because of his experience in business administration, because of the interest he has shown in campus activities, and because of his amiable and conscientious character.

Therefore, we, the undersigned, nominate Blair Douglas for President of the C.U.S.

Alan Held
Platform

Before outlining my platform I would like to express my gratitude to the students who have placed their confidence in me, by nominating me to the vice-presidency of the McGill Union. I elected I hope to justify their faith by adequately fulfilling my functions.

Having served as Secretary of the Union, I feel that I now have an understanding of the fundamental problems which face the incoming Union Executive.

The Union should help the Radio Workshop in their efforts to obtain a campus radio station. I shall do my utmost to further these efforts along with continuing to work for a New Students' Union at McGill, which is of paramount importance.

In the past the Dates Committee has been completely under the control of the Vice-President of the Union, which has led to some confusion. A reorganization has been proposed whereby major campus dates will be controlled by the President and all other co-ordinated by the Vice-President.

A number of repairs and renovations must be done this year. Among these are:

a) A cleaner and more efficiently run Grillroom.
b) Some form of wall decorations to make the Union more attractive.
c) The installation of a quiet reading-room to enable students to study in the Union.

d) The acquisition of a ping pong table, without which no Union is complete.
e) Securing a television set to complete the lounge.

Alan Held

Pen Sketch

Intelligence, geniality, and leadership: an appealing combination rarely found in one person. Those who know Alan Held, our candidate for vice-president of the McGill Union, will readily agree that he has liberally displayed all these qualities.

Held, a fourth year student in honours maths and physics, has recently decided to supplement his education with a degree in Engineering. Alan has shown keen interest in student activities here at McGill. Presently he holds the position of secretary of the Union in which capacity, he has been able to acquaint himself with the Union and its functions.

Besides being president of the Bridge Club the past year, Alan Held is a sports writer on the McGill Daily.

In his year at Dawson, Alan was on the athletics council and was on the executive of the First Year Club.

Little more than a week ago, Alan Held gave an impressive display of his athletic ability while boxing at Quebec with the intercollegiate boxing team.

Such activities take up a considerable amount of the student's time and we would like to stress that it is typical of Held to take them in his stride while shouldering the academic load that accompanies the student of honours math and physics.

We the undersigned, unhesitatingly nominate Alan Held, feeling sincerely that he in every way deserves to take his place in the ranks of student leaders, and that eventually he will justify our confidence in him.

He is a member of the Merry Martlets and the Choral Society. A member of M.O.C., he is interested in skiing and swimming.

This year, the decorations and much of the co-ordination of the Tri-Service Ball were due to Derek who was one of the two C.O.T.C. representatives on the committee.

We the undersigned, believe that Derek Spiers has proven himself the kind of person required for the position of the C.U.S. president, and we are certain that if elected, he will do his utmost to deserve the responsibility of that office.

New Aspects of Architecture Reviewed
Demonstration Course Great Innovation

"Too tired to comment," was the general reaction of fifth year Architecture students when asked their opinions of the Demonstration Training Course being held at the McGill Building Trades Apprenticeships' Centre. The Demonstration Training Course whose purpose is "to evaluate and advance the use of three-dimensional development techniques believed of value in the integration of construction industry" is held by the McGill and Beaux Art Schools of Architecture in conjunction with the Central Mortgage Housing. The designing is performed by the Architecture students and is immediately built up by the apprentice school. The students can therefore see their creations in three dimensions instead of the usual method in which creative thinking has been developed, and that is in terms of mathematical computations and two-dimensional drawings.

CHIVALRY'S END?
There are those who would argue that chivalry is dead at McGill. We wouldn't know. But if it is dead there's a better than even chance that its passing coincided with the untimely demise of a native of the Congo uplands whose gallant last stand resulted in his becoming one of the leading "personalities" of present-day McGill.

Tens of thousands of nodding acquaintances have come to know him as "George the Gorilla." His closer associates sometimes refer to him as "Dunc's Monk" thinking back to Duncan Hodgson, leader of the McGill-Congo Expedition of 1938-39, who presented 450-pound "George" to the University. What George's many wives called him—gorillas are polygamous—science has failed to record. All that is known is that they were the cause of his downfall.

The story, as recalled by J. D. Cleghorn, curator of zoology at Redpath Museum (where the glass-encased George remains for many a feature attraction):

Having a roving disposition and living in small bands, the mountain gorilla is free from natural enemies. He favors life in the trees, building temporary nests before moving on. Although he possesses frightening teeth and grasp, his diet is vegetarian; leaves and fruit and bamboo shoots make up most of his food.

An adult gorilla with his band can hold his own against any other species in his environment. Carnivores fear and avoid him when he is full-grown; he, in turn, molest no one unless provoked. His only concerns need be food supply and rivalry within or among the bands of his own kind.

George's particular troubles began when he realized that his band was being tracked by humans and hunted down. The old bull ape is said to have gathered his wives and young together and herded them up the trees to the protection of foliage above. He saw the last head up to safely and only then considered himself. He had waited too long; the Expedition fired and
